

2013
Long Island

NATURAL HISTORY CONFERENCE

Friday, December 6, 2013

Berkner Auditorium

Brookhaven National Lab

Register at LongIslandNature.org

General admission: $25

Students: $15

Presentations

Impacts of Hurricane Sandy: The Fire Island Breach
– Charlie Flagg, SUNY StonyBrook

Coastal Response to Hurricane Sandy at Fire Island, NY
– Cheryl Hapke, USGS

Status of the American Eel on Long Island
– Carol Hoffman, NYSDEC

The Long Island Mammal Survey
– Joshua Stiller, NYSDEC

An Ecological History of Long Island's Suburbs
– Christopher Sellers, SUNY Stony Brook

Status and Conservation of the Saltmarsh Sparrow and Red Knot – Steve Papa, USFWS

The Moths of Long Island – Hugh McGuinness

Ticks, Chiggers, Black Widows and Brown Recluses
– Scott Campbell

Home Range of the Eastern Box Turtle
– Jennifer Higbie, Brookhaven National Lab

Fish Movements on the Carmans River
– Heidi O'Riordan, NYSDEC

Conservation of the Eastern Tiger Salamander on Long Island – Valorie Titus, Biologist

Impacts of Hurricane Sandy: Sunken Meadow State Park
– Ariana Newell, NYS Parks

Long Island's Bats – Michael Fishman, Biologist

History of Long Island's Menhaden Industry
– William Wise, SUNY StonyBrook

Long Island's Carnivorous Plants – Matthew Kaelin

A Day in the Life of the Carmans River
– Melissa Griffiths, Central Pine Barrens Joint Planning & Policy Commission

